Information on the Duty of Loyalty to the Constitution in the Civil Service

*Beamte** must commit themselves to uphold and defend both the free democratic basic order as set out in the German Basic Law and the constitution of the Free State of Bavaria in all of their actions and by their general conduct (§ 33 (1) of the Civil Servant Status Law (BeamtStG)).

Accordingly, pursuant to § 7, subsection 1, no. 2 of the Civil Servant Status Law (BeamtStG), only applicants who warrant that they will at all times defend the free democratic basic order as set out in the Basic Law and the Constitution of the Free State of Bavaria may be appointed Beamte.

The same rules apply to judges [§ 9, no. 2 of the German Judiciary Act; § 71 of the German Judiciary Act in conjunction with § 33, subsection 1 of the Civil Servant Status Law (BeamtStG)].

The duty of public employees to commit themselves, in all of their actions and by their general conduct, to the free democratic basic order as set out in the Basic Law is specified in § 3, subsection 1, clause 2 of the Collective Agreement for the Civil Service of the Federal States (TV-L).

According to the rulings of the Federal Constitutional Court (cf. judgment of 23 October 1952 – file no. 1 BvB 151 – Compilation of Decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court, Vol. 2, p. 1 et seq.; judgment of 17 August 1956 – file no. 1 BvB 2 51 - Compilation of Decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court, Vol. 3, p. 85 et seq.), free democratic basic order according to the German Basic Law is an order characterized by freedom and equality and bound by the rule of law based on self-determination of the people in accordance with the will of the majority, without violence or despotism. Free democratic basic order is the opposite of a totalitarian state which, as an absolutist regime, does not respect human dignity, freedom and equality. The basic principles of this order include, in particular:

respect for the human rights set out in the Basic Law, in particular the right of the individual to life and free development of their personality,
popular sovereignty,
separation of powers,
accountability of the government,
legality of administration,
independence of the courts,
multiparty principle,
equal opportunities for all political parties,
constitutional right to form and practice opposition.

Participation in activities which are contrary to the above-mentioned principles of a free democratic basic order is incompatible with the duties of civil service positions, irrelevant of whether these activities are pursued as part of an organization or individually.

Applicants for civil service positions who take part in or support anti-constitutional activities must not be employed.

Beamte and judges who commit such a breach of duty must be aware that disciplinary proceedings may be instigated against them for the purpose of terminating their position.

For public employees, such conduct is likely to lead to dismissal without notice pursuant to § 626, subsection 1 of the German Civil Code (BGB).

*Under German civil service laws, a distinction is made between two categories of civil servants, i.e. public employees in the civil service (in this document referred to as "public employees") and Beamte with their own legal status.

Excerpt from the Public Notice of the State Government of Bavaria on the Duty of Loyalty to the Constitution in the Civil Service of 3 December 1991 (StAnz./official gazette no. 49) as amended by the public notice of 27 September 2016

Section I General Provisions

1. Duty of Loyalty to the Constitution

Pursuant to the German Basic Law (Grundgesetz), the Bavarian constitution, the Civil Servant Status Law (BeamtenStG), and the German Judiciary Act (Deutsches Richtergesetz)

- only persons may be appointed civil service or judge positions who warrant that they will at all times defend the free democratic basic order as set out in the Basic Law and the Constitution of the Free State of Bavaria;
- Beamte and judges are obligated to actively support the free democratic basic order both within and outside of their job duties.

2. Assessment principles

2.1 Each case must be assessed and decided individually, based on the following principles:

2.2 Applicants

2.2.1 Applicants who engage in anti-constitutional activities are not eligible for civil service.

2.2.2 If applicants are members of an organization pursuing anti-constitutional purposes, their membership will give rise to doubts as to whether they will at all times uphold and defend the free democratic basic order.

2.2.3 Applicants who have violated principles of humanity or the rule of law or worked for the State Security/Office for National Security of the former German Democratic Republic (GDR) are not suitable for the civil service, which is defined by democratic freedom and the rule of law.

2.3 Beamte and Judges

If Beamte or judges, as a result of their actions or membership in organizations pursuing anti-constitutional purposes, fail to comply with the provisions of § 33 (1) sentence 3 of the Civil Servant Status Law (BeamtenStG) – in case of judges in conjunction with § 71 of the German Judiciary Act (DRiG), which require them to uphold and defend the free democratic basic order as set out in the German Basic Law, the employer has to investigate the facts and circumstances and draw the necessary consequences, in particular examine whether or not the Beamte or judge should be removed from service.

3. Public Employees

In accordance with the requirements of collective agreements, the same principles shall apply to public employees.

Section II Procedure

1. ...

2. In the event that as a result of the information provided in the questionnaire, the applicant's refusal to sign the declaration attached as Appendix 3/Appendix 4, or any other facts that have come to light there are concerns as to whether the applicant is fully committed to the free democratic basic order as set out in the Basic Law and the Bavarian Constitution, these concerns must be resolved prior to the applicant's employment. The following steps may be taken:

- file an inquiry to the Landesamt für Verfassungsschutz (State Office for the Protection of the Constitution) to establish whether or not there are any facts to support the concerns regarding the appointment. The State Office for the Protection of the Constitution is obliged to respond to such inquiries without delay. If there is supporting evidence, the information provided by the State Office must be restricted to facts that are suitable to be used in court;
- provided the applicant consents, file an inquiry to the Bundesbeauftragter für die Unterlagen des Staatssicherheitsdienstes der ehemaligen Deutschen Demokratischen Republik (Federal Commissioner for the Stasi Archives of the former German Democratic Republic) in the cases set out in § 20 (1) no. 6 lit. d, e and h and § 21 (1) no. 6 lit. d, e and h of the Stasi Files Act (StUG).

3. In departure from no. 2, for applicants from the former GDR born before 12 January 1972 inquiries regarding their potential activities for the Ministry for State Security/Office for National Security of the former GDR must always be filed to the Federal Commissioner for the Stasi Archives of the former German Democratic Republic in the cases set out in § 20 (1) no. 6, lit. d, e and h and § 21 (1) no. 6, lit. d, e and h of the Stasi Files Act (StUG), subject to the applicants' consent.

4. In accordance with no. 2 sentence 2, 1st bullet point, an inquiry to the Landesamt für Verfassungsschutz (State Office for the Protection of the Constitution) must always be filed in the following cases where

- Islamic Republic of Pakistan

- Syrian Arab Republic
- Republic of Tajikistan
- Tunisian Republic
- Turkmenistan
- Republic of Uzbekistan
- United Arab Emirates;

4.3 applicants have no citizenship ("stateless persons") or whose citizenship is unknown or has not been determined.

4.4 Inquiries pursuant to nos. 4.1 through 4.3 require the applicant's consent; Art. 15 (2) through (4) of the Bavarian Data Protection Act must be complied with. Precondition for filing an inquiry is the intent to employ the applicant; in some cases, employment may be subject to receipt and examination of documents not yet submitted and assessment of the applicant's health status. Where an inquiry has been initiated and employment is no longer intended, the inquiry must be withdrawn without delay.
